THE YACHT RACE AGAIN A FAILURE

Second Attempt to Test Their Speed Worse Than the First.

THE SHAMROCK LED SLIGHTLY

But Little Could Be Told of the Respective Merits of the Two Racers in a Good Breeze-Poor View From the Shore,

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 .- Again to-day the sea refused the Shamrock and Columbia a field of conflict; again to-day the multitude which went out to watch the contestants for the yeehting championship of the world returned disappointed and not a little disgusted. The question of supremacy of the two great yachts is still as much an open question as before they first met, as the contest to-day was, in some respects, more of a fluke than that of Tucaday. It was a drifting match almost from start to finish.

The yachts crossed the line with a breeze of five knots and the wind never blew more than six knots, most of the time less than three and part of the time not a breath of air was stirring. After sailing four hours and forty-three minutes, the yachts having covered only twelve miles of the course to the outer mark, the Regatta Committee declared the race off as it was panifestly impothe race off, as it was manifestly impos-sible with the breeze then blowing, for the boats to round the stake before the time limit expired, much less to get back nome again

SHAMROCK GAINS.

During the time in which the yachts were at it, the wind, which carried them were at it, the wind, which carried them fead before it over the line, had hauled around until at the finish they were beating into its teeth. While the wind held astern the Columbia steadily outfooter her rival until she was fully half a mile ahead, but in the shifting, baf-ling wind that followed during the last three hours, with the great single-strick-ers tacking and beating and sybing to eatch every streak of wind, with fortune helpin cue about as much as the other, the Shamrock gradually worked her way up until, when the race was declar-ed off, the two boats were about on even biscuit to the foreigner. The only les-ton learned by the nautical sharps from to-day's trial of the abilities of the two boats, is that in light weather conditions petter in beating. There has yet been no indication of what either beat can do in a piping, wholesale breeze.

So gentle were the crestless pulsating seas that any kind of river or harbor craft could venture out with impunity and a colony of excursion boats, yachts, tugs, side-wheelers and sailing vessels gathered around the red hulk of the San-

A heavy haze hung over the sea and shut off the view of the thousands waiting on the highlands of Navesink and the in and out through the acres of boats like needles, their wakes a thread of foam, warning the excursion skippers to keep their distance. But little difficulty was experienced to-day, as Captain Evinterviews threatening dire conse quences to offending skippers had had a wholesale effect. Already the crowd was disappointed. Each one had come down praying for a stiff breeze, and found instead that there was hardly wind enough to keep the flags fluttering. What there was was from northwest by north from over the land. Preparations were made aboard both yachts for the lightest airs before the start. The Columbia discarded her heavy steel topsallyard for a boat sent aloft the largest club topsail ever seen on her, larger by yarus than any used in her trials on this side.

Mrs. Iselin, wife of the managing owner of the Yankee bont, and who never fails to be aboard during a race, was snugly onsconced in the companionway of the Columbia, attired in a jaunty white flan-nel costume with a red streamer around

There was some pretty manoeuvering behind the lines before the start, each breaking naker boom as they jockeyed for posi-

THE START. Both got across in the smoke of the last gun, the white beauty a length ahead and in the windward berth.

The official time of the start was: Columbia, 11:00:53.

Shamrock, 11:01:05. The wind was blowing hardly five mots. As she crossed the green boa-roke out her spinnaker, which was it knots. As she crossed the green boat broke out her spinnaker, which was in stops. It was an English fashion to hotst this sail from the boom, and the Shamrock in her trials clung to the English way, but since her arrival she has learned many Yankee tricks, and breaking out the spinnaker is one of them. The cup defender was a little slow in getting her big bellying sail out, and this somewhat dampened the ardor of the patriotic throng of Americans, who love nothing so much as forehandedness and snap; but sixty seconds later both boats were on even terms, fleeing before the gentle breeze wing and wing, spinnaker balancing ma'nsail and bulging balcon jib drawing forward. The bells in the enginerooms of the excursion fleet clanged, and the careening hulls started forward in pursuit. But they slowed down almost immediate and then stopped.

The light breeze was carrying the big vachts down the wind at a snall's pace. They drifted along like two lazy clouds of smoke upon the surface of the water. For almost an hour the spectators on the excursion boats watched them drift like Coleridge's "painted ship upon a painted NOW THE COLUMBIA.

NOW THE COLUMBIA.

The only cheering feature of the situation was that the Columbia steadily cained ground; inch by inch she crept along. At the end of fifteen minutes several lengths of clear water showed between her and her green rival. The bands played and a few whistles tooted. On, on she moved until she was fully five hundred yards ahead. It was picturesque, but not exciting. The balloon ib, was drawing in the gent'e breeze. Then the wind began to die, and the great balloons of canvas forward collapsed like meal sacks. At the same time the wind canted a little, and Columbia concluded to change her tactics. She took in her spianaker. W. I., Griffin.

Through the mist they could just be made out, looking like high-peaked circus tents. Then, when the wind hauled around to the south-southeast, and the racers had taken in their spinnakers to beat into it close-hauled, the excursion boats all puffed up to see what they were doing at this point of sailing. But for the rest of the race the yachts were half the time in the doldrums, with their sails flapping listlessly.

THE COMMUTATION LAW.

Judge Purnell, under the law of five days' commutation per month, for good behavior of a convict, will probably order the release of ten more men from the penitentiary. It will be remembered one man was released a week ago upon this ground. The question still is, "Is the act retroactive?" The men were imprisoned June, 1898, and the law was not passed until February, 1899. Under the old law three days, instead of five, were given for good behavior.

Many women are denied the happiness of children through some derangement of the generative organs. Actual barrenness is rare. SORROWS

Among the many triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the overcoming of cases of supposed barrenness. This great medicine is so well calculated to regulate every function of the generative organs that its efficiency is vouched for

by multitudes of women. MRS. ED. WOLFORD, of Lone Tree,

STERILITY Iowa, writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM-Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I had one child which lived only six hours. The doctor said it did not have the proper nourishment while I was carrying it. I did not feel at all well during preg nancy. In time I conceived again, and thought I would write to you for advice. Words cannot express the gratitude I feel towards you for the help that your medicine was to me during this time. I felt like a new person; did my work up to the last, and was sick only a short time. My baby weighed ten pounds. He is a fine boy, the joy of our home. He is now six weeks old and weighs sixteen pounds. Your medicine is certainly a boon in pregnancy." MRS. FLORA COOPER, of Doyle, S. Dak., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM-Ever since my last child I suffered with inflammation of the womb, pains in back, left side, abdomen and groins. My head ached all the time. I could not walk across the floor withoutsuffering intense pain, I kept getting worse, until two years ago I wrote to you for advice, and began taking
